

NORTHWEST ACTIVITY CENTER

DETROIT, MICHIGAN

Client
City of Detroit
Recreation Department
4000 Cadillac Tower
Detroit, MI 48226
Larry Edwards
(313) 578-7541

Architect
Redstone Architects
29201 Telegraph Road, Suite 400
Dan Redstone
(248) 351-0770

Project Size
150,000 SF Overall
24,000 Renovation

Project Cost
$3,400,000

Date Completed
December 2001

Delivery Method
Construction Management

JM Olson Corporation provided Construction Management services for the City of Detroit's Recreation Department as they renovated their Northwest Activity Center's ballroom, kitchen, and theatre. Located at Meyers and Curtis in Northwest Detroit, the Activity Center is the ideal home for a multitude of performing arts including professional theatre, music, dance, drama programs, lectures, and other community events. The Activity Center's main theatre features seating for 500 individuals, and provides the proper equipment and facilities for the host of music, dance and theatre events that will be held there.

This project was part of the City of Detroit's revitalization program which focused on projects within the community that are key to the growth of their residents and that reinforces Detroit's image as a positive place to live and work.

